
LUX
VENETIAN PLASTERING

Our STORY

Established in 2007 by Max Gillen and based in Belfast, we are a local based plastering company, specialising in bespoke surface design using microcement, Venetian plaster and liquid metals. LUX creates environments that are responsive, adaptive, inviting and exciting.

We believe that plastering and environments are deeply connected, and that each one has an influence and effect upon the other. Long gone are the days when plastering was simply considered the skimming of a wall or ceiling, leaving a blank canvas for the customer to paint or add wallpaper.

We have spent over a decade learning, practicing and perfecting new skills and systems, bringing venetian plaster and microcement to Northern Ireland and taking homes to the next level of luxury.

Also known as Marbled Plastering & Polished Plastering, Venetian Plastering is made from crushed marble and lime. Originating in Italy during Roman times and lasting a lifetime, it is fast becoming an asset to any home or business premises.

There are many different colours and finishes available, meaning the possibilities are endless. This can be applied to ceiling, walls, splashbacks, bathrooms, kitchens, media units or whatever you please, we can make it a reality.

Over the past 3 years we have also became experts in microcement. Microcement is polymer-based cement product, renowned for its strength and durability. It is an ideal material for both exterior and interior surfaces, with the ability to be applied directly over existing tiles, wood, concrete, metal etc and applicable for floors and walls.

In this brochure we'll tell you all about our products and services, including venetian plaster and microcement, so you can choose what's right for you.

Venetian STUCCO

Stucco is a decorative design technique, which gives this shiny marble effect you see on all of these images. Whether it is for a media wall, a feature wall or a kitchen splash back. With these finishes you can add little bits of extras - such as subtle veins of colour or other effects of your choosing. Stucco is ideal for both residential and commercial properties.

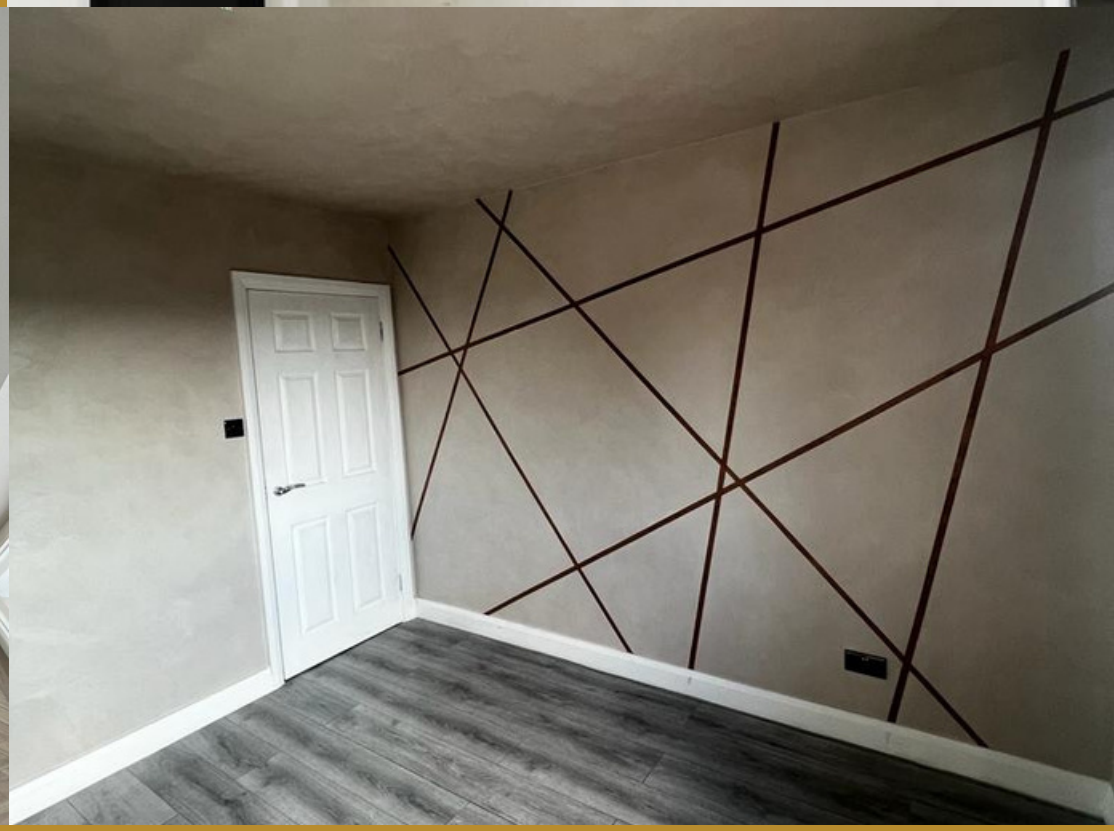

Venetian MARMORINO

Marmorino is made from crushed marble and lime putty, which can be tinted to give a wide range of colours. This can then be applied to make many textures, from polished marble to natural stone effects. Whether you would like a textured design, something with a bit of colour or even a cloudy design like you see on the right hand side image, they are all possible with Marmorino.

MARBLE

Our marble finishes provide handcrafted marble effect walls and floors using venetian plaster and micocement. We can create one off, totally bespoke pieces with no joints, leaving you with this amazing marble finish

Artificial ROCKS

We are the only company on the island of Ireland who supply and fit artificial rock walls. These incredible walls are handcrafted, with every design available for both interior and exterior. Each wall is hand carved and sculpted. This product is available in a range of colours, styles and sizes for your home. We can create feature walls, sinks, stone ornaments, light fittings or any bespoke decor. Ideal for homes and businesses alike.

Liquid METALS

Liquid metals are metal powders mixed with resin to make a plaster like consistency. This can be sprayed or trowel applied onto virtually any surface. We can create amazing designs just like you see in these images and apply them to floors, tables, worktops, walls and more. Whether it's big, bold and ambitious, or subtle for added effect, liquid metals are a great option for making something special look even more spectacular.

Microcement WALLS

Microcement is the definition of luxury and reliability rolled into one. It is a thin, cement based coating, applied in multiple layers at an overall 3-4mm. Quick hardening and extremely durable, it is shock and scratch resistant, water resistant and can be applied directly on top of existing materials - saving both time and money. It is totally seamless, meaning there are no ugly grooves or grout lines and can be used both indoors and outside the home.

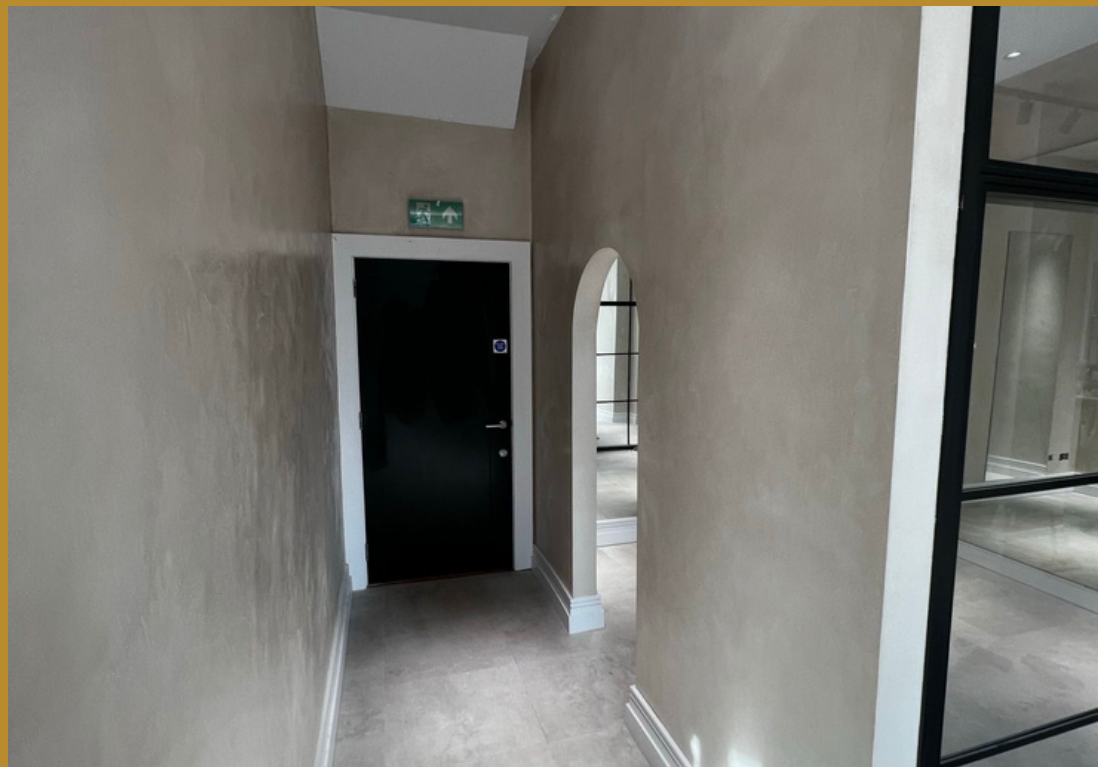

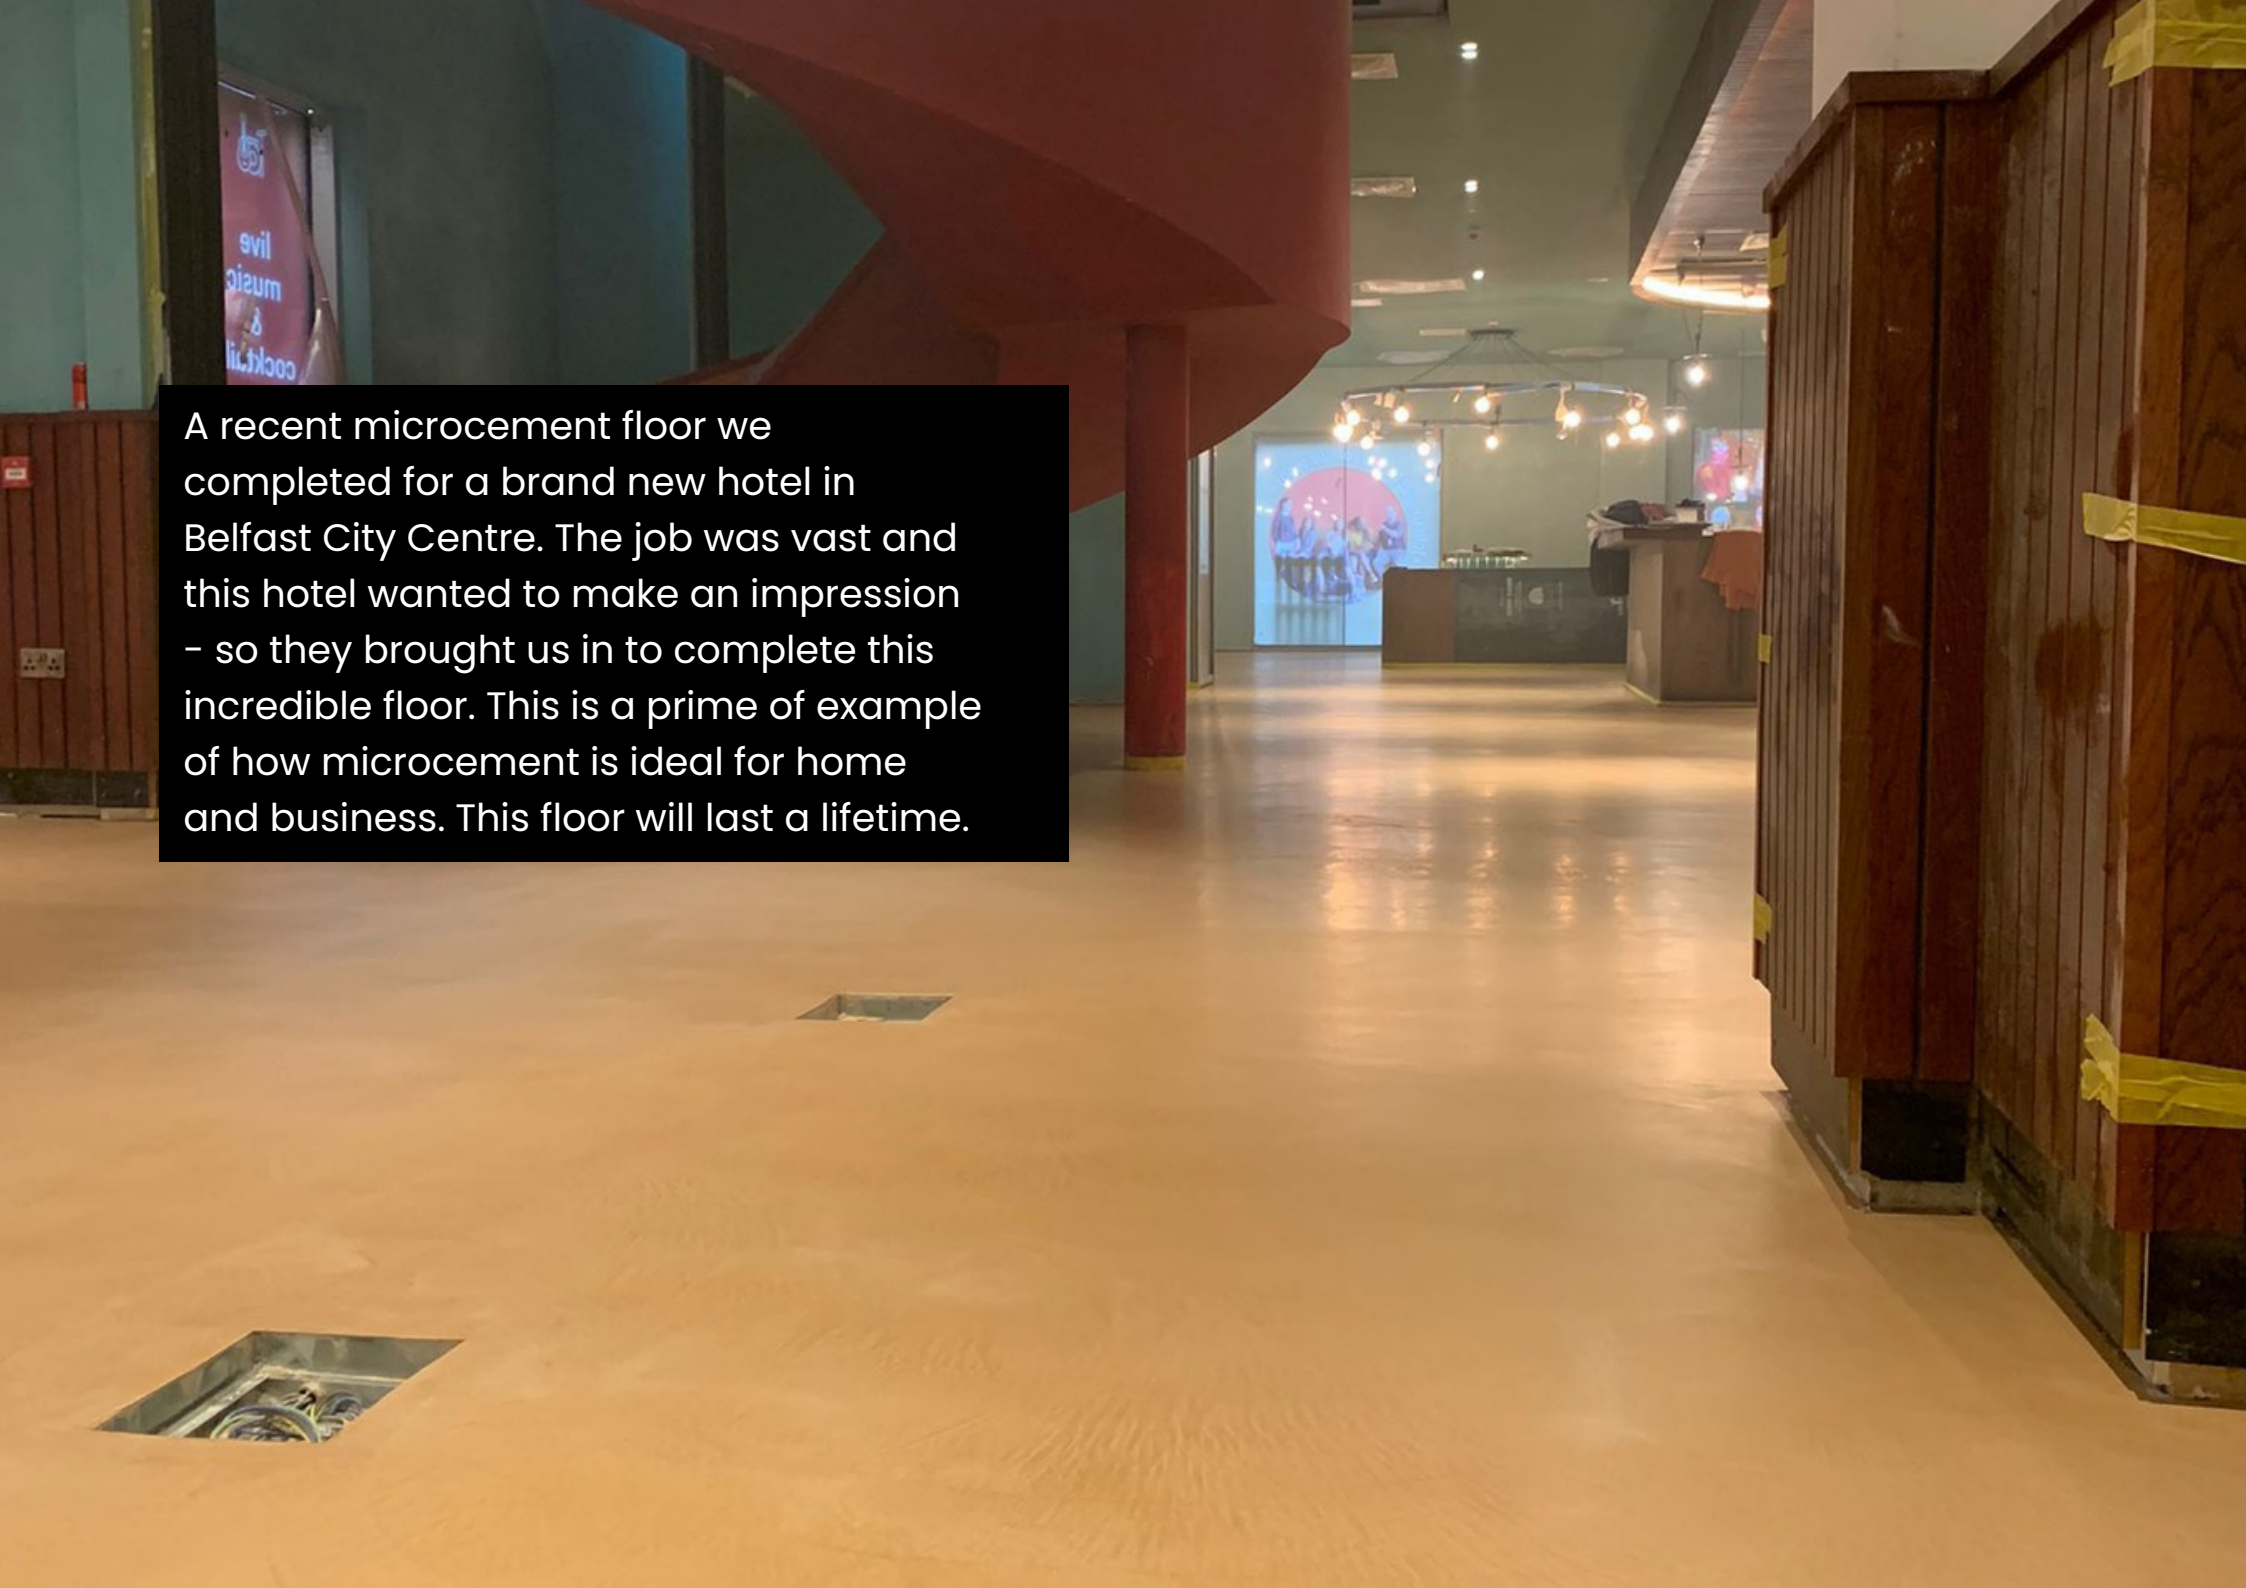

Microcement FLOORS

Microcement is ideal for floors, if you have tiles or another substrate already in place there is no need to rip it up, we will apply microcement directly on top. Due to its thin coating, it is compliable with underfloor heating. It is extremely durable so will cope with large footfall, which is why it is popular with luxurious hotels. You'll see no ugly grout marks or joints, a totally seamless, classy finish.

A recent microcement floor we completed for a brand new hotel in Belfast City Centre. The job was vast and this hotel wanted to make an impression - so they brought us in to complete this incredible floor. This is a prime of example of how microcement is ideal for home and business. This floor will last a lifetime.

Microcement BATHROOMS

Microcement is completely waterproof once sealed, meaning it is the ideal surface for walls, floors and ceilings in bathrooms. It can also be used in wet rooms. We are one of the very few companies with microcement suitable for pools, spa's and Jacuzzi's. Easily cleaned and versatile in terms of colour or design, we have completed many microcement bathrooms over the past couple of years. A microcement bathroom is the ideal please to unwind and relax at home - surrounded by luxury.

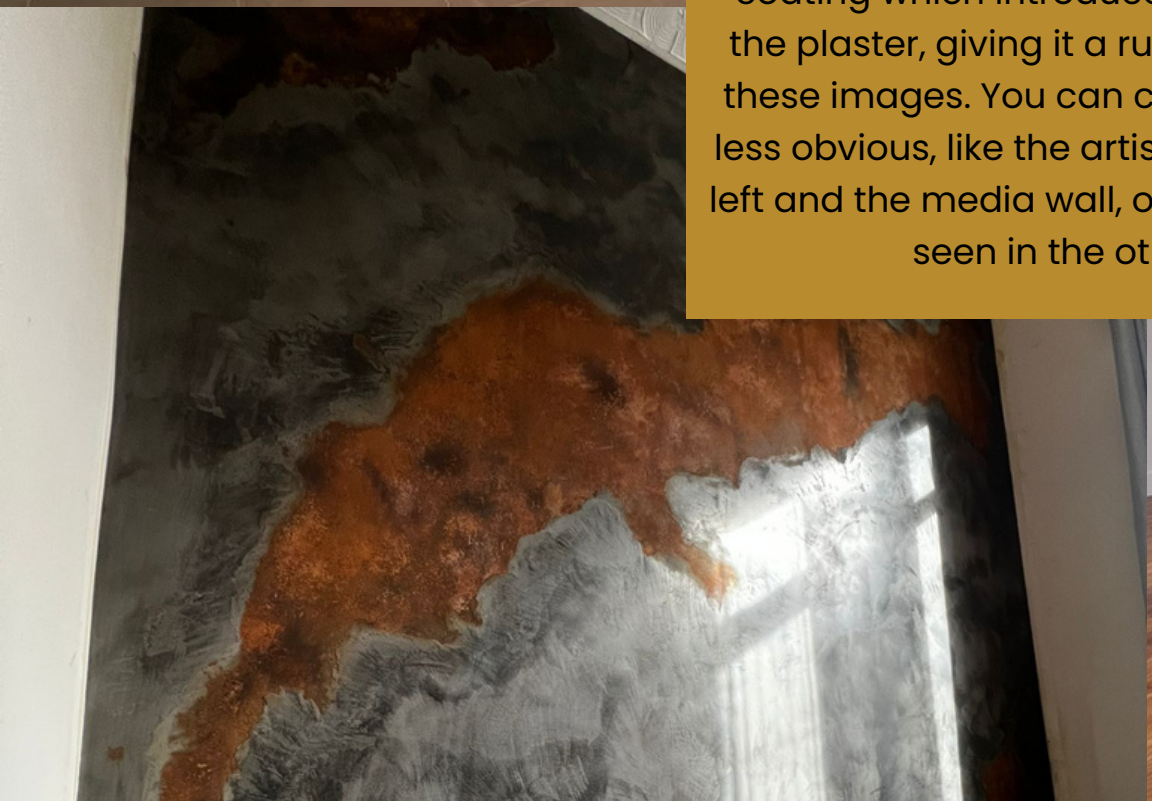

Venetian OXIDATION

Oxidation is an innovative type of surface coating which introduces metal particles into the plaster, giving it a rust effect, as you see in these images. You can choose whether you go less obvious, like the artistic piece in the bottom left and the media wall, or for a louder design as seen in the other images.

CLAYWORKS

Clayworks is clay, but in plaster form, which can be used on internal and external walls and ceilings. It is a sustainable, eco-friendly way of improving your home. It is environmentally friendly and uses no chemicals at all.

But above all else - it looks amazing. It is versatile meaning you can make it totally bespoke, changing colours, textures, designs and locations throughout your home. It has proven extremely popular in mainland UK and can been seen in various popular hotel and restaurant chains throughout the UK.
